All Students Deserve High-Quality, Equitable Instruction

Pivot Learning and UnboundEd can help your district build the systems and capacity to deliver excellence to every student, every day.

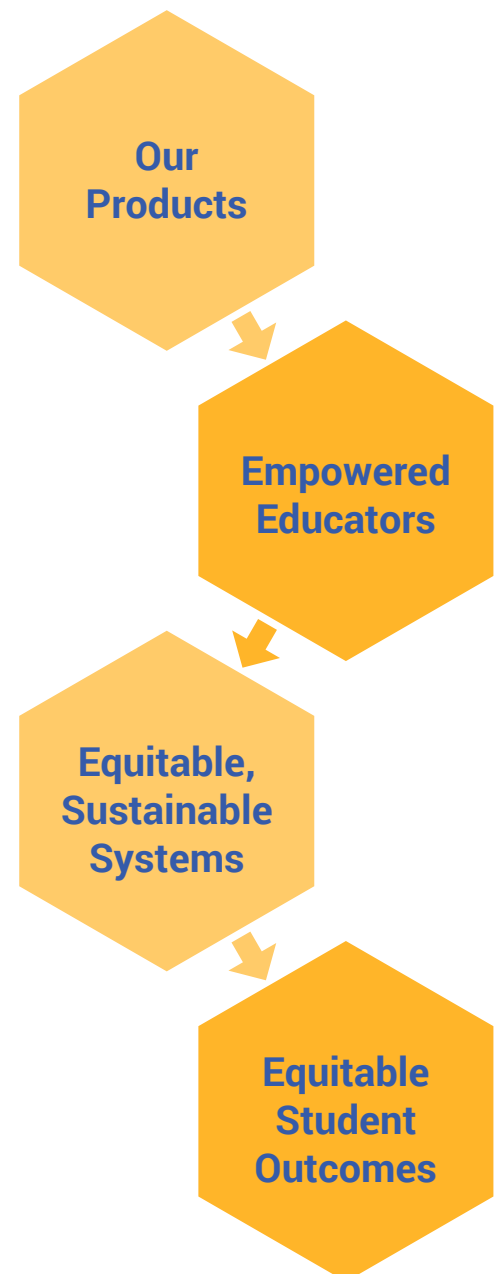

Recent research indicates that students have inequitable access to grade-level materials and instruction along lines of race and class. Feedback from districts has let us know districts are eager to know more and do better. But, they need help.

We know that to create equitable student outcomes, we must provide educators across a district ecosystem with the skills, knowledge, and tools to implement high-quality curricula. That's why Pivot Learning and UnboundEd are committed to helping districts build their capacity to create the systems they need for sustainable implementation of high-quality instructional materials that produce equitable student outcomes.

Our unique, holistic approach to ensure instructional equity

We build systems with you, not for you. We are the only educational partnership that offers a customized suite of services that support a district across its ecosystem—from teachers to superintendents—to successfully implement K-12 Math and ELA curricula centered on equitable student outcomes. We know that effective, equitable systems are built by collaboration across district and school teams. That's why we require that districts engage staff from school sites as well as district leadership.

Our model offers customizable components to meet your district's needs and we do the work in collaboration with you, to ensure we are building your capacity and creating something sustainable.

UnboundEd

Pivot Learning refers to both Pivot Learning and our subsidiary, the Consortium on Reaching Excellence in Education (CORE). Learn more about CORE at corelearn.com.

We build capacity for equitable systems

Pivot Learning and UnboundEd collaborate with districts to build their capacity because we believe those in the system should design and lead the work. We also know that systems will only create lasting change if they're developed by those working within them.

Our services empower educators to design equitable, sustainable curriculum implementation systems. We build, launch, and test these systems using continuous improvement strategies. These systems are high-quality, research-based, comprehensive, and drive towards closing the opportunity gap.

We support districts committed to equity

We serve K-12 districts who are adopting and/or implementing core ELA and Math curricula and are committed to building an implementation system working in service of equitable student outcomes.

Curriculum implementation support services are offered as a new partnership between Pivot Learning and UnboundEd.

Pivot Learning provides job-embedded, curriculum aligned implementation support at site and district levels.
